SECTION B (50 MARKS)

51. Read the story below and answer the questions that follow in full sentences.

Last term, the Primary Six class had a debate. It took place in the school main hall starting at 2:opm. On that Friday, all the pupils gathered in the main hall ready for the debate.

The chairperson, Hon Nkudulu took his seat, the secretary, Hon Kalanda also sat and the timekeeper. Next was the main speakers and as soon as they were ready, the debate began. The motion was "MAN IS THE WORST ENEMY OF HIMSELF." The chairperson welcomed members and thanked them for keeping time and turning up in big numbers. After he had said all that, the national anthem was sung and next, he invited proposers to give their views.

Hon Mbwiti took the floor first. He explained the motion and took his side argument. Among the views he raised was that man has made a lot of chemicals and machines in the inventions which in turn have claimed his life. He added that man has cut trees to a large extent hence causing drought and famine for himself. With all the above, he concluded that man is the worst enemy of himself.

After the propose, was an opposer Hon Ludo. She started by saying that the proposers had failed to interpret the motion. Man is not an enemy of himself. These proposers have failed to know that the motion is wrong. Actually, man tried to improve himself though an opportunity. He has improved technology and worked so hard to change his environment. For example some places would not be accessible if man did not connect them using roads. Furthermore, man has set up internet and telephones to make life better. How can one say that he is the worst enemy of himself?

It was a hot debate full of cheering and drumming, the chairman had challenges to control the house. Finally, the opposers won the debate according to the results from the secretary.
